Milestones: A History of Mountain View & The Mountain View Centennial The May Meeting

Wally Erichsen and Barbara Kinchen will collaborate on a revue and description of the soon to be available book, Milestones: A History of Mountain View, California. Wally and Barbara have worked closely with the author, Mary Jo Ignoffo, and Tom Izu, Executive Director of the California History Center & Foundation. They may have an advance copy for the audience to see, but in any case descriptions of the various editions, approximate pricing information and sign up lists for the books will be available.

Pat Figueroa, our Ways and Means Chair, will review the status and progress of the City's Centennial Celebration. Attendance at each of the scheduled events has so far greatly exceeded expectations. She will give an overview of what is still in store for us.

Come to the meeting and admire the wonderful Adobe Building. Elizabeth Engberg and Margaret Peterson will host our social time at the close of the meeting.

Mountain View Time Line Special Insert

Carol Fischer, the Staff Librarian who tends the History Room with Barbara Kinchen and our other volunteers, and writes a regular column for this Newsletter, stopped me in the Library lobby to say she had something she thought I might find interesting. I looked, and found it so interesting that it is folded into this Newsletter as a special four page insert. It is a time line for the events in local history. I've already found it useful.

Mountain View: Moving Forward Looking into the Past The February Meeting

As we said in the last Newsletter, The Friends of the Mountain View Public Library provided the funds, The Mountain View Public Library made available the resources, and Mountain View Community Television (Channel 15) provided the skills and direction to create an excellent video titled Mountain View: Moving Forward, Looking into the Past. If you missed the meeting, you can check out a copy of the video from the Mountain View Library. It is an excellent production, and well worth seeing over again.

OLD NEWSPAPER ITEMS COMPILED BY BARBARA KINCHEN

100 Years Ago (1901): Following is the third and final portion of a description of Mountain View from the San Jose Mercury, December 22, 1901. There are occasional blank spots in the article, but the word or figure was simply impossible to read in the old newspaper.

A PROSPEROUS COMMUNITY

These vineyards, combined with the grain fields, the immense hay production of the moist lowlands, the dairy and seed gardens, the local fruit cannery, the brickyard and other industries, add yearly to the production and wealth of Mountain View and make it one of the most important shipping points in Santa Clara Valley, the exports by rail of local products averaging two million pounds a month the year around. These figures, however, do not tell the whole story as shipments are constantly being made by schooner from the landings a few miles below the town. The area devoted to the growing of vegetables, strawberries and seeds is increasing from year to year, and the planting of orchards goes steadily on. Probably the finest body of brick clay in all California lies within a quarter of a mile of the station, and from it the bricks were made that were used in connection with building stone in the construction of the original buildings of Stanford University. The brickyards have a capacity of –,000,000 bricks a year, and their product is still used in the new buildings that are being erected at the university. The fruit cannery, which was built about twelve years ago, although not operated for several seasons, was reopened two years ago, giving employment during the fruit season to a hundred or more men, women and children, and the money paid for operating expenses is expended in the town among the merchants and other business houses, all of which is a help to local trade.

Business and Other Buildings

The town of Mountain View has expanded with the growth of the surrounding country. The Olympic Hall building, the Martin and Weilheimer store buildings, the Arnold block, the local bank building and others are all evidences of modern progress, while many new residences during the year past attest the substantiality of the town's advancement. A year or so ago the increased Postoffice business warranted the promotion of the office to third class, and this was followed by the establishment of a rural delivery district with a route of twenty-five miles, embracing ___ families and a population of ___ who are served daily with their mail with out cost to themselves. The town has a telephone exchange with more than fifty subscribers, and during the present year its operations have bee largely extended, many of its patrons residing in the country and their residences being connected by wire with the main local office. A section in which the rural residents may enjoy the convenience of telephones and the free delivery of their mail certainly possesses advantages which it is worth while for home seekers to investigate.

The bank building, of brick with stone front and in old Mission style of architecture, is one of the most striking business structures in the town, and although the bank has been in operation not much more than a year, it si a full fledged institution, having the confidence and patronage of the business men, farmers and fruit growers of the district. Its capital stock, all subscribed, is $22,5400, and it owns the building and the lot upon which it stands. Various lines of business are carried on in Mountain View, consisting of stores, of general merchandise and furnishing goods, groceries, etc., boot and shoe stores, hotels, restaurants, livery stables, tin and hardware shops, barber shops, meat shops, blacksmith shops, real estate and insurance offices, lumber yards, warehousers, bicycle shops and other kinds of business, all flourishing.

School Church and Library

The local public school and grounds represent a valuation of more than $___,000 and, in a general religious way, the Methodist, Cumberland Presbyterian and Baptist denominations and the Catholic Church are represented by neat and well-furnished church buildings. A free public library has been maintained for many years, and another healthful influence in the town, especially for the young men of the community, is the rooms of the Cycles' Club, where innocent recreation and diversion are provided, free from the demoralizing atmosphere of the saloon. A local board of Trade has done much for the advancement of the town, and the local newspaper, the Register, has ever been loyal to its _____. The alt water swimming baths, on a channel of the bay, only two miles distant are the only baths of the kind in the county, so one of the chief pleasures of the seaside, that of bathing in salt water on clean sands, may be enjoyed by the residents of Mountain View during the summer months right at home.

The brief outline of Mountain View here given will convey to the visitor and home seekers some little conception of what the town and its environments are, but nothing short of a personal visit of inspection will enable him to obtain a satisfying knowledge of the many advantages presented by this one of the most attractive sections of Santa Clara valley.

Street Talk

We left you hanging with the November Street Talk. The question was: "Stanford Avenue, College Street, Leland Avenue and University Avenue are clustered together in what sub-division in Mountain View?"

The Answer: These four streets are in the Castro City section of Mountain View, off Rengstorff Avenue between California Street and the railroad. My understanding was the first small houses were built by residents of San Francisco as summer places. But might they instead have been for professors at Stanford?

New Question: What was the former name of Meadow Lane in the Springer Meadows subdivision off Springer Road?

New to the Mountain View History Center By Barbara Kinchen

From Robert Schick: Two of his own pen and ink drawings. He is an artist. One is of the produce farm on Grant Road at Levin Avenue at Halloween and titled The Great Pumpkin. The other is of the water tower on Bryant Avenue.

From Mrs. Jean Pawed: A resident of Sahara Village on El Camino Real at Stevens Creek. Four pages of pictures and historical information about Stevens Creek.

Special Member Lena Alameda

A great birthday party was held April 2, 2002 for Lena Alameda on the occasion of her 104th birthday. She was surrounded by her long-time friends and family members. Milpitas Care Center, her present home, was festively decorated including balloons marked 104. Delicious ice cream and cake was served.

City Councilman and MVHA President Ralph Faravelli read a proclamation much to Ms. Alameda's delight. It was signed by Mayor Sally Lieber. The proclamation honoring her indicated that she was a Native Daughter of the Golden West, having been born in the east bay area, a citizen of Mountain View for more than 85 years. She was a long time employee of Wagner's Drug Store when located in the Jurian Building at the corner of Castro and Villa streets and later an employee of Knights Pharmacy well into her eighties.

She was recognized as a person with a vivacious personality, "life of the party" and known for her smart hats and stylish dressing. A long time member of St. Joseph's Church, charter member and treasurer for 60 years of the Young Ladies Institute (YLI) and member of IFES of Portuguese tradition. Few have lived thru two centennial celebrations as she has.

Ms. Alameda is a long time member of the Mountain View Historical Association and was very active in the early years of the Association. She is carried as a Special Member in the records of the Association.

Lena would welcome visitors at Milpitas Care Center, 120 Corning Avenue, Milpitas, California 95035.
