The Seventh Day Adventist Church In Mountain View

Presented By

Rev. Curtis Church

The November Meeting

The Seventh Day Adventist Church, its schools and the Pacific Press have more than a hundred year history in Mountain View. In our history book, Milestones, we note that "second only to the railroad, the most significant influence on Mountain View during the first century of growth came from the divine inspiration of a religious woman, Mrs. Ellen White, one of the founders of the Seventh Day Adventist Pacific Press Publishing Company."

Our speaker, Reverend Curtis Church will expand on the impact of the Seventh Day Adventist Community upon the growth and prosperity of Mountain View.

Eleventh Annual Barbecue & Raffle

The August Meeting

The August 1, 2004 meeting of the Mountain View Historical Association was our Eleventh Annual Barbecue & Raffle. Eighty-eight members and friends attended the successful event, held in the Adobe Building on Moffett Boulevard. It was a great opportunity to meet old friends and make new ones. Attendance included honored member Chris Castro and friend from Discovery Bay California. Chris is a great grandson of Crisanto Castro, owner of the Castro land grant.

Credit is due Barbecue Committee Chairman John Viscovich and his committee consisting of Margaret Petersen, Dorothy Holden Rich and Ann Cozzolino. The able cooks included Al and Audrey Jehning, Mayor Matt Pear and City Councilman Mike Kasperzak. We also wish to recognized Sunnymount Produce, Sunnyvale, CA, donor of the vegetables and watermelons.

President's Message

We will be electing a new slate of officers at our November 7 meeting. I will be retiring from my tenure as president. These past two years have been a very fulfilling experience for me in many ways. I am truly grateful for the friendship and support I received from everyone. The pas-president becomes a member of the Executive Committee so I will still be active in the functioning of our Association.

Recently MVHA proposed to the City a project to place an exhibit about Mountain View's history in the replica of the S.P. Depot at the Centennial Plaza area. Thanks to the City's favorable response and support from City staff, we have placed an exhibit at the Depot. We plan to expand and improve this exhibit. Go by and take a look.

Old Newspaper Items Compiled By Barbara Kinchen

125 Years Ago (1879): Extracts from a description of Santa Clara County, "The Garden County" of the State:

> Of the 832,000 acres within the county, three fourths are mountainous and sparsely settled. There is every variety of soil in the valley. The west side foothills are particularly suited to vineyards. Along the marshy lands near the bay, strawberries are grown. During the summer season, 30 to 75 tons per day are shipped from Alviso to San Francisco. The leading productive industry is fruit culture. Carloads of fresh fruit are shipped east. Two drying and one canning factories give employment to hundreds of women and boys from May to November. San Jose has a population of 17,000 and Santa Clara 3,000. Mountain View and Mayfield are on the line of the San Francisco and San Jose Railroad and in the midst of a rich farming district and yearly adding to their wealth and importance.

100 Years Ago (1904): More than 50 families are living in tents, as no houses are available. A row of houses are expected to be erected on grounds adjoining the Pacific Press (Might these be Adventist families here from Oakland to work at the Pacific Press Publishing business?)

Alta Mesa Cemetery has just opened for burials.

Brown's Dairy, Whisman Road, employs eight men to care for 180 head of cattle. Manuel Seimas has just opened a dairy on Charleston Road with 70 cows.

75 Years Ago (1929): Mr. K. Kawamoto is proprietor of the Peninsula Goldfish Hatchery, with all kinds of goldfish and birds, on the State Highway (El Camino Real.)

A parsonage for the Methodist Episcopal Church South has just been completed at 994 Villa Street.

A three-year subscription to the Mountain View Register-Leader was $1.00.

The city now has a dial telephone system, in the new quarters at Hope and Dana Street. Palo Alto, Mountain View and Los Angeles are the only cities in California with dial phones.

Admission to the local theatre was 25¢ for adults and 10¢ for children and there were shows at both seven and nine each evening.

A "local retail firm has a dynamite and powder warehouse in the middle of the garbage dump, believing it is as safe a place as the county affords for the storage of explosives." However, a grass fire invaded the dump, at the end of Stierlin Road, and it took both fire departments, City and Fremont District, to keep the fire away from several tons of dynamite and giant powder.

50 Years Ago (1954): This was a record-breaking year for growth and development. New shopping centers: San Antonio, El Monte, Blossom Plaza. New schools: Bubb and Los Altos High School. New buildings included: First National Bank of San Jose, Bank of America, Sprouse Reitz, Pep's Barber Shop and Lawson Real Estate and Insurance (all in the 300 block of Castro Street) and Sylvania plant.
New territory: 700 acres were annexed to Mountain View, much slated for industrial use, bounded by Moffett Boulevard, Bayshore Highway, Bernardo extension and present city limits.
New family homes: dozens and dozens of permits issued for dwellings in existing or new subdivisions with names like Blossom Valley Estates, Springer Meadows, Sunshine Glade Tract, Miramar Tract, Varsity Park, Yorkshire Homes and Calderon Park.

West Coast Door Manufacturing Company, 1701 Villa Street, which opened in 1952 is now shipping 15 to 18 thousand doors a month — "a door-a-minute."

Mr. And Mrs. John Gemello celebrated their golden anniversary with three generations of Gemellos in attendance.

Bettencourt Miracle Market had local lettuce at three heads for 22¢, eggs 49¢ per dozen and filet mignon sold for 69¢ per pound.

Street Talk
By Barbara Kinchen

The August Newsletter asked about a special plaque and memorial located at 2865 Marine Way, near San Antonio Road and north Highway 101. The answer: In 1990, Frank Golzen went back to Germany, from which he had emigrated in 1931, and acquired two 12-foot high sections of the Berlin Wall. They can be found in a corner of a parking lot in a small office building complex at 2865 Marine Way, Mountain View.

New Question: In 1996 two new streets were created within the block bordered by Evelyn, Bush, Villa and View Streets. What is the significance of Front Lane and Minton Lane in this location?

Editor's Goodbye

It has been a good and enjoyable run but I must call it quits and turn in my eyeshade and sleeve garters. This is the forty-fifth quarterly newsletter under my editorship, but family issues are taking more and more time and energy. Flora is a middle stage Alzheimer's patient, and she is my first priority for the unforeseeable future.

I've truly enjoyed doing the Newsletter. We've covered a lot of interesting material. We've supported the creation of the Mountain View War Memorial, which now of course needs updating. We pushed for the creation of the Stevens Creek Trail. We have remembered the earthquake of 1906 and urged preparedness for future shocks. We backed eleven summer barbecues, which have been a satisfying addition to civil life. We helped unveil the new marker for the Pioneer Memorial Park and honored the first residents of the area ,the Ohlone Indians. We've dealt with the Spanish Influence in the Valley. We heard about Trudi Odbert's experiences in the Peace Corps in Hungary.

One of our major efforts, to Save the Adobe was a great success. We've talked about agriculture in the Valley. We've heard from two sailors who served on the airship Macon. We backed the drive for the new Library. We have discussed fighting fire and dealing with disaster. We joined with the City in celebrating the city's 95th birthday, a sort of warmup and get ready for the Centennial Celebration. We have heard from the Police Department and the history of policing in Mountain View.

In the midst of the controversies over the "privatization" of El Camino Hospital, we heard from one of the founding doctors. Did you know that Mountain View was the home of the beginning of the semiconductor industry? Our meeting spearheaded the drive to get the recognition tablet placed at the old Shockley Semiconductor factory building.

We had another meeting on agriculture in the valley, and we talked of the family industries in the valley. In an effort to stir up a little friendly controversy, we had a meeting to talk about a former suburb of Mountain View, the newcomer city of Los Altos.

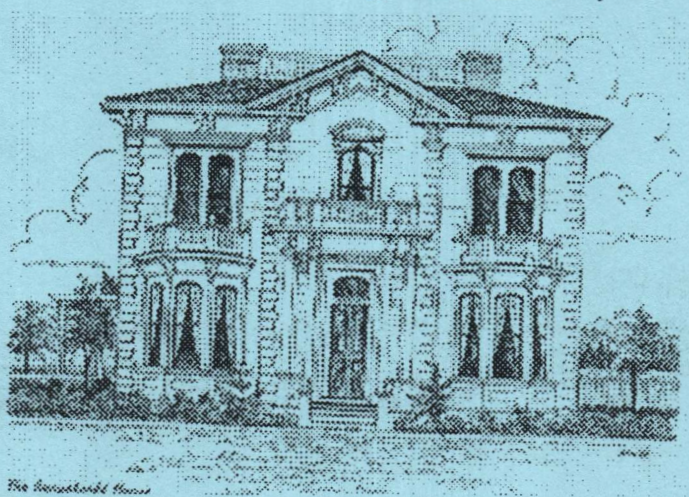

The author of our history of Mountain View, Mary Jo Ignoffo spoke to us about California's first Legislature. In an unusual meeting we met with a man who collects fire engines. We had a meeting to talk about an important early but now almost forgotten industry in Mtn. View, Olive Oil.

We helped celebrate the 150th anniversary of the First Presbyterian Church and the 100th anniversary of Saint Joseph Catholic Church

In November of 2001, we celebrated the renovation of the Adobe Building, an accomplishment in which we played a significant role. In 2002 we celebrated with the City, Mountain View's Centennial.

It's been a great and exciting decade, and I regret the necessity of stepping back, but time marches on.

I thank you, the membership of the Mountain View Historical Association for the honor of being your editor this past decade. I wish as much success and gratification for my successor.
