MVHA's new exhibit boards and brochure on display at the County Fair

President's Message

By Patricia Figueroa
MVHA President

Hi Everyone,

A great time was had by all who attended the BBQ. Thank you to Mayor John Inks and Councilmember Mike Kasperzak who joined former Councilmembers Nick Galiotto and Matt Pear in doing a fantastic job of cooking up those very tasty hamburgers for all of us. A special thanks to Helene Hughes, our Hospitality Chairman for coordinating the BBQ.

One of the goals of the Mountain View Historical Association Board is to increase our visibility. Therefore we have been placing our newly revamped brochure in a variety of locations. If you know of a spot where we can place our brochure let us know.

Nick Perry placed a Mountain View Historical Association exhibit at the Santa Clara County Fair and he received many "thank you for being there" comments. Special thanks to Nick's family for helping him at the Fair which was the day before our BBQ. Many of us were working on getting things together for the BBQ and not able to join Nick.

We also put up an information table at the Art and Wine Festival in September and distributed many rulers and our free historic building walking tour booklets. It was a very hot weekend and we appreciated all those who volunteered their time. Thanks to Cliff Del Carlo for working both days.

We look forward to seeing you at our next membership meeting on Sunday, November 3rd. Don't forget this is a perfect time to do some early holiday shopping and buy your friends and relatives one of the variety of books we have to offer.

Editor's Note: For snapshots of the MVHA events Pat mentions in her message, see page 4!

Updates from Around Town

By Nick Perry
Newsletter Editor

Dunn's is Done. As reported in our Summer newsletter, longtime downtown business Dunn's Auto Body shop on Bryant Street has closed. The auto body shop building, and adjacent structures, were recently leveled to make way for a new office building. Dunn's joins a growing list of mid-20th Century buildings in Mountain View to make way for new development. Others include the former c. 1945 St. Joseph's convent on Church Street, most recently home to CHAC.

Immigrant House Update. In September the Mountain View City Council voted to use newly acquired property at 771 North Rengstorff Avenue as public open space. The parcel is also slated to become the permanent home of the c. 1890 "Immigrant House," formerly located on Bryant Street.

Hangar One Update: Bids from parties interested in Moffett Field's runways, golf course, and historic hangars (including Hangar One) are due to NASA on October 16, 2013. Groups reported to be interested include Google, the Air and Space West Foundation, the Silicon Valley Space Center, and the International Space Development Hub. Stay tuned for more updates on the future of this iconic structure.

Summer Snapshots

The MVHA had a very eventful Summer! Here are a few photos from recent events.

Santa Clara County Fair

Newborn piglets at the Fair

One of MVHA's new exhibit boards

The MVHA unveiled our new historic exhibit at the annual Santa Clara County Fair in San Jose. The fair's theme was " Your Hearts Delight," an homage to the region's history as the Valley of Heart's Delight. Our exhibit was a popular spot for Fair visitors, and the Fair itself offered lots of old-fashioned fun, farm animals, carnival rides, and tasty food. We hope to return next year!

Volunteers from greeted the crowds and answered questions about Mountain View's history at our table and exhibit during both days of the 42nd annual Art & Wine Festival on Castro Street.

Summer BBQ

Thanks to everyone who came to our annual Summer barbecue at the Adobe Building. The weather was great, the food was tasty, and a fun time was had by all.

Street Talk

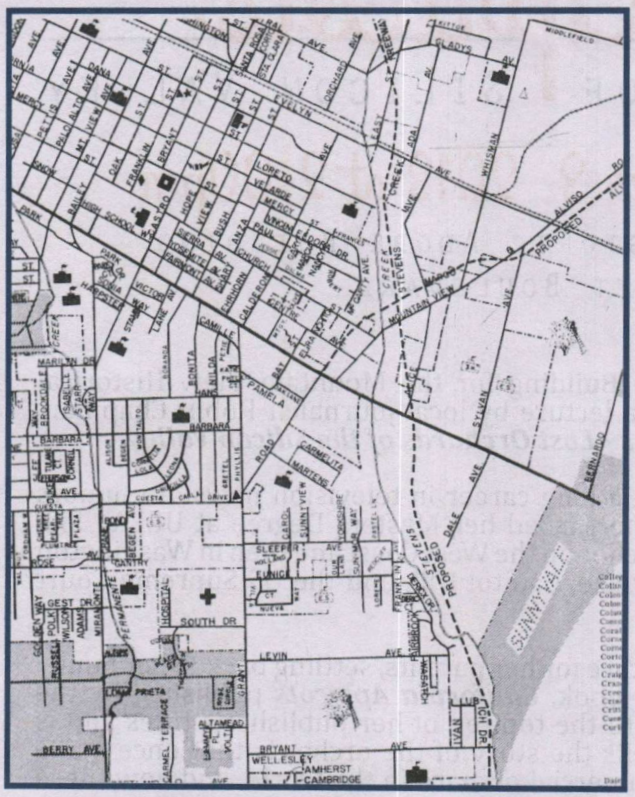

Mtn. View - Alviso → RD 100

By Barbara Kinchen
Historical Data Chair

CORRECTION: The Summer Newsletter Street Talk article had information about the Lane brothers - William, Hurcial and Wilburn. It was Hurcial's son Gill (MVUHS '58) who came to the History Center.

In the early 1960s, the new Stevens Creek Freeway (Highway 85) and the realigned Mountain View Alviso Road caused a number of changes to streets and roads, especially in the area of Calderon, Evelyn, Sylvan, and El Camino Real. Compare the 1962 map with the current one for the changed routes and names.

California Apricots

Lost Orchards of Silicon Valley

Sunday, November 3, 2013 at 2:00pm

At Mtn. View's Historic Adobe Building
157 Moffett Boulevard

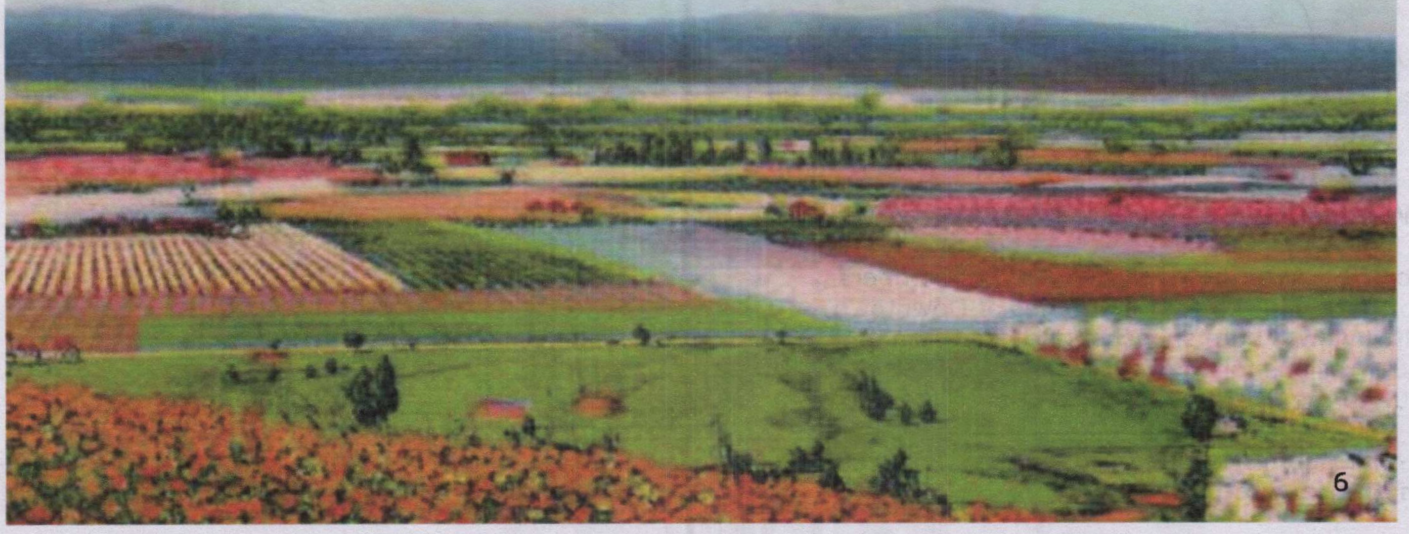

Robin Chapman

Please join us at the historic Adobe Building for the Mountain View Historical Association's Fall Meeting, featuring a lecture by local journalist Robin Chapman, author of the book California Apricots - Lost Orchards of the Silicon Valley.

Author of four books, Robin also had a long career in television news. An honors graduate of Los Altos High School, she earned her Masters Degree at UCLA. She worked as a television reporter and anchor on the West Coast and then in Washington D.C., where she covered the White House, Capitol Hill, and the US Supreme Court among many other stories.

In 2009, she returned to California to care for her parents, settling back in her family home after their passing. Her latest book, California Apricots published by the History Press in April, has vaulted into the top ten of her publisher's titles and is already into its second printing. It tells the story of the orchards that once made the Santa Clara Valley the largest commercial orchard in the world, and how those orchards gradually made way for the Silicon Valley we see today.
