President's Message

By Candace Bowers
MVHA President

Happy spring! This is one of my favorite times of the year, as our valley really comes alive and gives us a glimpse of days past, when blossoming trees stretched as far as the eye could see. It reminds us of why we were known as the Valley of Heart's Delight.

I grew up next to a prune orchard that had been part of a larger ranch that was subdivided for new housing. All traces of the orchard are long gone, but I have some great memories of playing outside all day in the open space (and sneaking some fruit.) So I'm especially looking forward to our spring meeting, when Tim Stanley, author of The Last of the Prune Pickers, discusses his latest book about our Valley. My family was part of one of the waves of migration-- the Lockheed workers-- that he mentions in his book.

Even though I was a bit too young to have been a prune picker or 'cot cutter myself, the stories from that time intrigue me. So now, I head to the Central Valley in late summer to pick fruit from an "adopted" nectarine tree. (Yes, we now pay for this opportunity!) This form of "fruit tourism" is the closest I'm ever going to get to those good old days. It's hard, hot work, and we love every minute of it.

See you at the Adobe!

MVHA Board Updates

By Nick Perry
MVHA Vice President

A few updates from the last MVHA Board of Directors Meeting, held on March 20, 2018:

- Board Changes. Our long-time Publicity Committee Chair, Marina Marinovich, has agreed to fill the Director-at-Large position that was vacated by Annemarie Montavon. Thank you, Marina! We are also excited to welcome a new member to our Board, Regina Sakols. Regina will be our new Ways & Means Committee Chair. Welcome, Regina! A bit more about Regina, in her own words:

  > "I live in the Waverly Park neighborhood, originally from Germany, I moved to Mountain View 18 years ago. The international and diverse aspect of this area make it an interesting and enjoyable place to live. Art and design is my background; I love to make, create and be busy with my hands. Presently I am part of a team opening a non-profit Maker Space (Maker Nexus) in the Mid-Peninsula area. Mountain View is one my favorite places; lively Downtown, lovely neighborhoods and an amazing history. It is important to preserve and tell the story about this city and its the buildings. How it became what it is today and what it will and can be tomorrow."

- Barbara Kinchen Memorial Plaque. We are also excited to report that the memorial plaque has been ordered! We hope to unveil the plaque on June 29. Please check our facebook page or call the History Center at (650) 903-6890 for updates on the plaque unveiling.

- Website Update. Our long-time volunteer web master, Suzette Spencer, has retired from her duties after many years of maintaining our website. Thank you, Suzette! We are excited to share the news that we have a new volunteer web designer: Melissa Wright. Melissa recently moved to Mountain View and is excited to help us update our website. Stay tuned for more information!

ABOUT THE EVENT

The MVHA is excited to welcome back author Tim Stanley to share a slideshow lecture on his new book! The Peopling of Silicon Valley, 1940 to the Present Day: An Oral History puts a human face on the Valley. It does not pretend to be a history of the entire Valley during this period or of the technology industries for which the place is now famous. This is a personal history of a cross section of the people who have settled here and of the place they call home with just enough of the technology story to make it interesting.

The book encompasses the five major migrations to the Valley since World War II: the GIs, Lockheed, the chip makers, the minicomputer folks, and the software and web developers. Each is, if not the dominant group, at least a group representative of a particular period that lasted fifteen years or more. Each wave of people brought with it both increased economic prosperity and social change. This is their story, told as much as possible in their own words.

ABOUT OUR GUEST SPEAKER, TIM STANLEY

Tim Stanley grew up in the Santa Clara Valley of California before it was known as Silicon Valley. His first jobs were cutting apricots and picking prunes, which is what kids did here before they started writing code at age 12. Tim spent five summers working on a local fruit farm and the lessons learned there left a lasting impression on him. After raising two children with his wife Deborah and running a construction business for more than thirty years, Tim has been devoting most of his time to writing. His latest book is titled The Peopling of Silicon Valley, 1940 to the Present Day: An Oral History. It is a sequel to his popular local history titled The Last of the Prune Pickers: A Pre-Silicon Valley Story. Tim and his wife live in Irvine, California.
